This game has a lot of potential, but sadly, the controls are too "Slippery" feeling. Not only that, but a lack of control customisation leads to a very un-natural feel when playing. If the controls were able to be customised, and gamepad support was properly added (No real option for it, so there's a lot of guesswork with what does what) then this game would probably feel much better.

I hope this game gets improved upon. Although to me, it feels like a more budget version of Spelunkey with controls that aren't as good.

It is charming, though, and I think it has potential (As stated before). This game is really and should be considered as a mistake when bought.

. Possibly the most addicting, yet annoying game I've ever encountered. If you wanna see someone angry, have them play this, those arrow traps and barely visible spikes would do the trick.

Only error, continuously get an error and causes crash, but the error makes zero sense.

But would still play again. I plan on playing more than the 1.4 hours I have on it. :). good game well played. The game is in both English AND Russian! It makes the game unplayable since I can't read Russian. I have the language setting on English, so why I still run into Russian is beyond me.. Next time I read "roguelike game" in a game description I'm going to go postal!

Really $5 for this pile of shitting hell the worlds gone mad.

What is this , I don't even.

No. Seriously.

-No directions.

-No real goal.

-No instructions.

-No charm.

No anything worth mentioning. Just keep on going and going and going.

Would help if there was a little narrative or something. Who am I? Why am I here? Why is this dead girl in the box? What does this golden poop thingie do? What does this item do? And so on and so on.
